1 Peter 4:7 - 1

Peter 4:7 I believe the end Peter referred to was the imminent end of the Old Covenant age, not the end of the physical world. This aligns perfectly with Jesus' prophecies about the destruction of Jerusalem and the temple in that generation (Matthew 24:2, 34; Luke 21:22).

I believe the end Peter referred to was the imminent end of the Old Covenant age, not the end of the physical world. This aligns perfectly with Jesus' prophecies about the destruction of Jerusalem and the temple in that generation (Matthew 24:2, 34; Luke 21:22).

Here is the context and supporting scriptural alignment:

Jesus said the end would come after the gospel was preached to all nations (Matthew 24:14). Paul later affirms this was fulfilled in his day (Colossians 1:23, Romans 10:18).

Peter was writing before the destruction of Jerusalem in 70 AD, warning that the time of judgment was at hand for that generation (1 Peter 4:17 – "it is time for judgment to begin with the household of God").

This end was also linked to the fiery trial they were experiencing (1 Peter 4:12), which corresponds with the tribulation Jesus said would come before Jerusalem's fall (Matthew 24:21).

Peter had heard Jesus say "this generation will not pass away until all these things take place" (Matthew 24:34), and he believed Jesus meant what He said.

So, "the end of all things" refers to:

The end of the Old Covenant world, centered in Jerusalem and the temple.

The end of the age (Matthew 24:3) that Jesus warned about.

The culmination of the prophetic timeline leading to the kingdom fully transitioning to the New Covenant.

It was near because Peter lived in the last days (Acts 2:16-17, Hebrews 1:1-2), and the time was quickly approaching for God's judgment to fall on Israel as Jesus prophesied.
